Molly Watson

I have always loved being outside.

Molly Watson

I always wanted superpowers.
Doesn't every kid dream
of being Superman?

Molly Watson

Golf tournaments were the best part of summer.

Molly Watson

The knickerbockers only came out on tournament days.

Payne Stewart was my favorite player growing up. I wore this hat so I could be like him.

Playing a junior tournament with Randall. I think I was thirteen or fourteen in this picture since I had stopped wearing knickers.

I have always wanted to represent the USA!

Growing up, nothing was too bright or colorful for me to wear.

UGA Athletics Association

A good boy and a not-so-good boy. Not saying which is which.

UGA Athletics Association

Notice the colorful custom putter shaft painted by my dad. Back then no one would make me a pink driver shaft.

American Junior Golf Association

Yeah, I guess I've always liked the color pink.

Even as a junior I loved team events.

Our wedding day. So glad Mom and Dad got to share it with Angie and me.

One of the last times I saw Billy Weir, the retired PING salesman who introduced me to PING and the Solheim family. He was a great man.

Randall Wells

Celebrating my second Masters victory in 2014.

First pitch at a Pensacola Blue Wahoos game after winning the 2014 Masters. I asked Quint Studer to let me buy part of the team that day.

Early days with Caleb.

Angie with young Caleb.

Chilling with baby
Dakota and her proud brother, Caleb.

Dakota's third birthday. I think she had already snuck a handful of icing.

Getting ready for the Masters Tournament Par 3 Contest. One of our family's favorite traditions.

Uga is a lot heavier than you think!

Caleb's VPK graduation. Kids grow up too fast!

With my mom in the Wahoos locker room.

Not everyone gets to dress up like a real-life teddy bear.

We love the Jockey
Being Family Foundation and helping families through the adoption process.

Ascension Healthcare

The whole family loves supporting the Studer Family Children's Hospital.

Dakota may love Bubba's Sweet Spot more than I do.

Caleb loves dressing up like an elf and helping with my annual Bubba Claus videos every December.

Nothing beats being a dad and helping out the team.

It's hard to beat a family day at Pensacola Beach.

I may be a golfer, but Angie and I both love basketball. We love to go to games when we can.
